

WHO IS SERVING MORE TO SOCIETY: TEACHERS OR DOCTORS?

“Teaching is a profession that creates all other professions”

The above statement says a lot about the impact teachers hold in our society. A book without a teacher is just like food without salt. A doctor could never become a doctor without teachers and this is enough for any sane human to understand which profession is more important for the sustainability of a society. You can say that a doctor saves life of a person but does anyone wants to live in a world where there is no education at all? And the humans are equivalent to animals. A teacher builds the society while a doctor just carries it. A teacher can change the life of a person but a doctor can just save it.

A person not having education is equal to an animal. Allah says in Holy Quran:

“The only difference between animals and humans is knowledge”

Which means that a person not having knowledge plays the part of an animal in a society in disguise of human. Now a doctor can save the life of a person but does a human wants to live in a society in which he is surrounded by such people that are like animals? Therefore a teacher plays an important role in changing these people and making the society sustainable.

The teacher also plays a part in building up a society. A teacher is a fundamental part for the creation of a society. No society can either be created or prevailed without teachers being in it. A teacher gives students purpose, show them the path to success and drive them to do well and create this world a better place. These are also the people that shows the path to a student who wants to become a doctor.

One more important thing in this regard is that a teacher can change the life of a person while a doctor can just save it. For example, a person who is a scoundrel can be changed by a teacher but not a doctor. A doctor could just use his knowledge and save his life but could not change the person. So in reality not a doctor but a teacher in actual “saves” a person.

This is clearly proved that the role of a teacher in a society is much greater than that of a doctor. A teacher is termed as “soul doctor” for a person as he changes their life completely. Now if a person stills disagree with this idea then he really needs to see a doctor.
